

LOCAL NEWS.

THURSDAY EVENING, JAN. 24, 18 5.

Sun rises to-morrow at 7:07; and sets at 5:53. High water 7:40 a. m. and 7:51 p. m.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.—For this section fair to-day and to-night followed by increasing cloudiness and warmer Friday; northerly, shifting to northeasterly winds.

BROKE OPEN THE DOOR.—A certain young man in the first ward has attained much notoriety during the past year by persisting in running after the wife of one of his acquaintances. The woman is often in the man's company and, as may be supposed, her husband is rendered anything else than comfortable by her conduct. About six months ago her liege lord aroused the neighborhood by running the object of her affection out of the vicinity and by his chastisement of her, and a few weeks ago he had the disturber of his peace arrested for alienating his wife's affections. On this occasion the woman and man were both fined for disorderly conduct—the latter for going to the house after having been forbidden by the husband, and the wife for receiving his visits, on the ground that their conduct was liable to cause a breach of the peace. Yesterday afternoon while the husband was away at work the ardent Romeo concluded to pay a visit to the house, but the Juliet in the case, for some reason, had the door locked. He proceeded to the back gate, opened it and endeavored to enter by the kitchen door. He found that bolted, but, bolts being no barrier against his ardor, he broke the fastening and entered. Some one apprised the husband of what was going on. Of course, when he arrived on the scene the man had left. Later the woman in the case, while in some sort of a freak of mind, jumped from an upper window to the street below. She escaped injury, but created considerable excitement in the neighborhood. The husband swore out a warrant against his tormentor for forcibly entering his house and for defacing property, and stated that if the authorities didn't stop the intruder from coming to his house he would effectually do so himself. Mayor Strauss this morning fined the accused $7.50 and held him in security to keep the peace by ceasing his attentions to the woman. The accused produced a letter in court which he said he had received from the woman. It contained many terms of endearment and much poetry and love's ditties. The husband recognized it as being in his wife's handwriting. It was brought out in the trial that two men were in the house when the door was broken.

POLICE COURT.—Mayor Strauss presiding.—The following cases were disposed of this morning:

Archie Hollett, arrested by Officer Ticer for an assault on John Schafer, was fined $10.

James Phillips, arrested by Officers Davis and Jones for forcibly entering a house, was fined $7.50.

William Butler, colored, arrested by Officers Ferguson and Beach for e-cip-ing from the chain gang, was sent back for 60 days.

Kate Carter, colored, arrested by Officer Ticer charged with assaulting William Thompson, colored, was dismissed.

The plaintiff in the above case, who had been arrested by Officer Ferguson for assaulting Cora Taylor, colored, was sent to the chain gang for ninety days.

Henry Jackson, colored, charged with assaulting John Medley, colored, was fined $10.

Night Report.—Last night was clear and cold. Five prisoners and twenty-six lodgers were at the station house.

A MUSICIAN FOR THE CHAIN GANG.—An ungallant colored individual named William Thompson got into a dispute with a dusky female named Cora Taylor, during which he threatened to dispatch her after the fashion prevailing in slaughter houses—by striking her on the back of the head with an axe. The woman escaped with slight injury and swore out a warrant for the arrest of her assailant. In the Police Court this morning Thompson stated that he was a musician and named a number of horns and other instruments from which he could extract music. Mayor Strauss said he was the very man he was looking for, as the chain gang needed enlivening strains of music when a charge on a sand bank was to be made and that he would conscript him for ninety days.

ASSAULT ON A SALOONKEEPER.—As has been stated, on Tuesday night while Mr. John Schafer was sitting in his saloon on the southwest corner of Gibbon and Colonus streets, Archie Hollett, a white man, and four or five negroes entered, and, without the slightest provocation, Hollett seized Mr. Schafer by the throat and choked him until his tongue protruded from his mouth. A scuffle ensued, during which the saloonkeeper got the best of his assailant and finally forced him into the street. Hollett was arrested yesterday and this morning, when brought before the Mayor, pleaded guilty of the charge made against him and gave no excuse for his conduct. He was fined $10.

STORE ROBBER.—Mr. H. C. Wallace's store, on the southwest corner of King and Alfred streets, was forcibly entered last night and robbed of a number of bottles of whisky, boxes of sardines, &c. The thieves, it seems, after effecting an entrance, took the whisky and sardines from the shelves and seating themselves by the stove, ate and drank their selves full, and then filled a basket with such things as they desired—chiefly whisky—and left. It is supposed the burglars were tramps and that the plunder was carried to a rendezvous near the city. The police have started on a search for the missing articles.

GEORGETOWN NO MORE.—The Senate bill providing that hereafter Georgetown shall lose its identity and become a portion of Washington was favorably reported yesterday. All the laws and regulations of Georgetown are repealed and the municipal code of Washington is made applicable to Georgetown. The title and existence of Georgetown is abolished, and the commissioners are instructed to have the streets and avenues of Georgetown conform as nearly as possible with those of Washington.

INCORRECT.—It was stated a few days ago that the late Mrs. Mary E. Ogden was a sister of Mrs. George E. Price, recently deceased. This was erroneous, Mrs. Ogden having been a sister of Mr. Charles Greenwood, and in no way related to Mrs. Price, although many persons thought so from their long intimacy.

THE RACE TRACK WAR.

As outlined in a dispatch from Richmond to the GAZETTE yesterday a compromise has been effected in the race track war in this country. Racing at Alexander Island will be suspended during the month of February, but after that the sport will be continued without legal interference, provided those in charge of it do not allow the sport to degenerate into a nuisance. This is the result of the compromise reached yesterday evening in the injunction proceedings brought about ten days ago to break up winter racing and the alleged evils that accompany it. The parties to the agreement, which was satisfied by a decree rendered by Judge Wellford, are the Commonwealth of Virginia, in whose name the injunctions were sued out, on the one side, and Isaac P. Jones, Alexander J. Wedderburn, Edwin P. Jones, A. C. Williams, T. W. Whitney, F. M. Bramzler, J. B. Bowman, W. P. James, R. Vandergrift, Joseph McGovern, Thomas Darden and the Grange Camp Association of Northern Virginia on the other.

The Commonwealth was represented by Attorney General Scott, Mr. R. Carter Scott Judge J. K. M. Norton and Judge Keith.

The defendants had as their counsel Judge W. W. and Mr. B. T. Crump, of Richmond; Messrs. A. W. Armstrong, Francis L. Smith, and Edmund Burke of this city and Washington. Mr. S. G. Brent, counsel for the Gentlemen's Riding and Driving Club at St. Asaph Park, was present to watch the proceedings. Isaac and Edward Jones, the leading spirits in the defendant corporation, were also on hand. It was expected that the defendants would move to dissolve the injunction, that affidavits would be introduced, and lively argument would follow, as the Commonwealth claimed misuse of charter, but the matter took an entirely different turn. A proposition was submitted that in view of the defendants consenting to abandon winter racing the case be dismissed. This was not agreed to. In this connection counsel for the Grange Association stated that they understood the Commonwealth's primary objection to be the winter racing and that it had been determined to stop the races during February anyhow. Attorney General Scott declined the proposition, but submitted that the case be dismissed on the promise that the races be stopped in February and the order granting the injunction should be suspended until March 1st, and thereafter, so long as the terms of the agreement were complied with, until the meeting of the legislature, when the case would be dismissed. That any motion to revise the injunction should not be made until after sixty days' notice to the defendants of such motion had been given; and that no proceedings by quo warranto would be instituted to forfeit the charter of the Grange Camp Association. This was taken under advisement, and after several conferences was agreed to by both sides.

The friendly turn that affairs took avoided what would undoubtedly have been a great legal fight, as counsel on both sides, while preferring an amicable adjustment, were prepared for a determined war.

It has been claimed all along by the Alexander Island people that those interested in racing at St. Asaph were really at the bottom of the proceedings brought against them. Whether this be true or not the theory was given color by the presence of the driving club's counsel in Richmond. It is said that had the injunction against Alexander Island been perpetuated it might have been enlarged to cover St. Asaph, and have the effect of closing that track next season. The commonwealth was moved to the compromise by reason of the fact that quo warranto proceedings to destroy the charter of the association would consume some time. Under the agreement it made it has a curb on the racing association, and the question of violation of charter may be left to the Legislature to settle. The compromise also includes an agreement that during February there shall be no book making or pool selling at the St. Asaph track.

The Alexander Island people consider that in the fight they came out the victor, and the counsel for the State say they accomplished what they had undertaken—the stopping of winter racing. The agreement upon which Judge Wellford's decree was based is signed by the Attorney General for the Commonwealth, and by Messrs. Burke and Smith for the defendants. It is as follows:

First—Races, pool selling, and book-making of every kind and description to stop during the month of February. Second—On the 1st of March the defendants to be permitted to exercise the rights, privileges, &c., conferred by their charter—that is the Grange Camp Association charter, and the laws of the Commonwealth.

Third—No proceedings by quo warranto to be instituted.

Fourth—The suspending order heretofore granted the Commonwealth in these proceedings to be enlarged until March 1, 1895. On that day, provided stipulation "first" is kept, the injunction to be suspended until further orders of the judge of the court.

Fifth—Should the defendants or the persons conducting the business mentioned, or compelled to in the bill, after the 1st day of March do so, orderly, without offense to the public, and without creating a nuisance, no effort will be made to enforce the injunction, and the pending proceedings will be allowed to stand until after the meeting of the next general assembly and then be dismissed.

Sixth—The Attorney General will give sixty days' notice of any purpose on the part of the Commonwealth to ask that the suspending order be set aside and the injunction prayed for in the bill be granted.

As soon as the agreement had been signed by the Attorney General and counsel for the defendants, Judge Wellford entered an order giving it effect.

SEMINARY NOTES.

Dr. C. G. Currie, of Christ Church, Baltimore, has accepted the invitation of the faculty to deliver the second lecture in the Reinecker course on the 4th Tuesday in February. From the interest and enthusiasm awakened by Bishop Randolph's address, it is expected that these monthly lectures will be a most healthy stimulus to all who hear them, and the students are warm in their expressions of gratitude for the liberality of Mr. Reinecker in enabling them to enjoy the benefits of these lectures.

Mr. Chas. Hooff and his daughter, Miss Carrie, entertained a number of friends most delightfully at his home on Tuesday night. Music was one of the features of the evening.

Mr. Mathews, the evangelist, who is so well known to our people, delivered two of his Bible talks in the chapel at the Seminary just before his departure for England. He sailed on the Tonic last week and arrived at his destination yesterday. While on the hill Mr. Mathews was the guest of Mr. Hooff.

Mr. L. M. Blackford went to New York this week to attend the American Church Missionary Society.

The illustrated lecture given by Mr. Willoughby Reade at Leggett Hall on Monday night was largely attended and much enjoyed. Mr. R. is possessed of decided histrionic ability and his rendition of "Trowbridge's Vagabond" was very fine.

Miss Mary Minor is the guest of Mrs. Blackford.
